

MIKE TREHERN

I am a Chief Warrant Officer Three (CW3) assigned to the U.S. Army Criminal Investigation Command (CID). I have 19 years of law enforcement experience with over 17 years in leadership positions. I have supervised more than 1,500 felony criminal investigations and completed numerous military and civilian law enforcement investigative and leadership courses.

I have travelled extensively and have a vast amount of experience working with governmental and non-governmental organizations around the world. Through my travels and networking, I have developed in-depth cultural awareness and a network of contacts in more than 20 countries spanning five continents.

I am currently searching for a Criminal Intelligence Analyst position where I can combine my law enforcement and military experience with newly acquired skills in data analytics. I hope to use these skills and abilities to help combat violent crime and human trafficking; as well as, help identify transnational criminal and terrorist organizations.
